In April 2010, there was a volcano ¹ eruption / drought in Iceland. The Eyjafjallajökull volcano is covered with ice. When the volcano erupted, the hot temperature of the ² tornado / lava started turning the ice into water and caused a ³ flood / forest fire. Many people were evacuated from the area nearby. The ⁴ rock / smoke formed huge clouds. Because there was a lot of ⁵ ash / soil in the air, it was very dangerous for aeroplanes to fly. So there were no flights to and from a lot of countries for a few days. Lots of travellers at airports couldn't get back home after their Easter holiday.

The most famous Egyptian pharaoh is Tutankhamun, King Tut for short. He is really famous because British archaeologist, Howard Carter, discovered his tomb full of treasure in November 1922, 3,000 years after the pharaoh's death.

King Tut was only nine years old when he became pharaoh and he was only 18 years old when he died. The Egyptian people did not have a lot of time to build his tomb. So King Tut's tomb was smaller than the tombs of the other pharaohs and it was built far away from the other tombs and pyramids. That's why no one could find it for thousands of years.

Inside the tomb, there was the pharaoh's mummy. There were also over 3,000 pieces of treasure inside the tomb. Most of these are now at the Egyptian Museum in Cairo. The gold mask of King Tut's face is a popular symbol of ancient Egypt. It's also at the museum.
